

This technical cross-section drawing illustrates the internal structure of a roof. The roof is supported by a central vertical post and four diagonal rafters, which are connected by horizontal beams. The rafters are secured with metal brackets. The roof surface is covered with a layer of insulation, indicated by a hatched pattern, and a waterproofing layer, indicated by a dotted pattern. The roof is finished with a layer of gravel and vegetation. The drawing is a black and white line drawing.

